

2014 Unit Guide

MGW2230 Organizational Behaviour

Students gain an understanding of factors affecting the behaviour of people in work settings. The unit focuses on individual, group, and total organizational human factors influencing the effectiveness of organizations, including: the nature of organizations in the global context; individual behaviour including perception, attitudes, values and personality, motivation and performance; group behaviour in organizations – the properties and management of groups, leaders and leadership, organizational power, influence, conflict and decision making; organizational structure; organizational culture; the formal and informal organization.

Mode of Delivery Workload	On Campus This is a six credit point unit with three hours class contact per week over 12 teaching weeks. The total time commitment expected for this unit is 144 hours. In order to meet the faculty's expectation, students should plan to spend on average nine hours in self-directed study, in addition to the three hours of class contact, each week. Students enrolled in Coursework programs in the Faculty of Business and Economics are required to attend a minimum of 80% of the scheduled class sessions for each unit. If you do not attend the required number of classes your performance could be compromised and you may not be eligible to join a group for the group assessments if you are not present at class when the groups are assigned.
Unit Relationships Prerequisites	Students are required to complete MGW1010 before undertaking this unit.
