PROLOGUE

Although I often looked for work, I usually had to admit that there would be no more for me than that of at best the rest. The world had ended once already and would again at any moment. The war had come and changed us by happening when everyone said it couldn't. No one knew how many had died, but when you found the numbers—two million or four million—you thought, impossible. Paris was full of ghosts and the walking wounded. Many came back to America or New York, Illinois, after long and carrying little pieces of what they'd seen behind their
